Read a book day at Craven

Dear Parents/Carers

Break out your reading slippers and mug of hot chocolate, because on the 12th of September it is Read a Book Day at Craven!

At Craven, we just can't stop reading, but sometimes we can put reading on the back burner with other "maybe later" activities like playing outside or going places with our families. Life can definitely get in the way of our reading time, but Read a Book Day is the perfect opportunity for children to make some time in their life to read a book.

Whether they are a sci-fi fanatic, a non-fiction buff, or a not-so-often reader, we want your children to bring in their favourite books from home and we will spend the morning letting children read and discuss them with their teachers and friends. This day reminds us that entertainment is not limited to what you can watch on a screen or hear through your speakers. Books can bring whole new worlds to life!

Yours sincerely

Mrs O'Loughlin
